THINGS TO CONSIDER WHEN LOOKING FOR LEGAL ASSISTANCE

If you're using free legal help, you may not have a choice in legal staff and some of these questions won't be applicable. But all are important considerations when you look for a lawyer or decide to retain one.

The first person you talk to at a law firm or legal center or clinic will likely be a receptionist or another staff member. You can ask that person general questions such as:

- Where is the lawyer licensed to practice? Can the lawyer legally practice in the location where you or your family member reside, or in the court in which the case will be heard?

- Does the lawyer practice the type of law you need? If so, how long has the attorney practiced that type of law? How many cases similar to yours has the lawyer handled?
- Is there a fee for the initial meeting, and if so, how much is it?
- If you decide to schedule a meeting, ask what information or documents you should bring.

When you first meet with the attorney, ask:

- Does the attorney charge a flat rate, a contingency fee, or an hourly fee?
- What is and is not included in those fees? What additional fees may be charged?
- How long does the attorney anticipate it will take to solve your issue?

Before you decide to hire an attorney, ask yourself:

- Does the attorney seem attuned to my needs?
- Do I feel comfortable sharing potentially intimate information?
- Do I trust the attorney? Do I feel like the attorney generally has my best interest at heart?
- Am I comfortable with the attorney's experience and fees?

Once you decide to hire an attorney, make sure you get a written contract that indicates what the lawyer will do for you, how fees will be determined, when payments are due, and what is and is not included in the fees.
